Onsite and Online Professional Development Programs

Each program is customized to meet the unique needs of each district, school, and teacher because when it comes to effective training, one size does not fit all.

From the first technology audits and needs assessments, we create benchmark usage criteria and overall program evaluations. Once goals and objectives are clearly defined in conjunction with all district stakeholders, best practice models of instruction are shared and decided upon, and then implemented in accordance with the district's short and long-term technology/professional development plan.

With eInstruction, your new and old technology equipment is fully integrated into your existing curriculum, ensuring the greatest possibility for success.

We have a program waiting just for you.

Grant Writing Services and Assistance

How would your instruction change if you were finally awarded the funds to purchase the technology you truly need?

Budgets are shrinking, yet the desire to purchase eInstruction products is growing. Federal and State Governments, as well as private businesses and foundations, have allocated large sums of money for sound educational technology endeavors.

We know that writing grants and applying for those funds can be difficult. In attempts to make that process easier, we have contracted the services of a professional grant writing firm who will present the grants to us, analyze each opportunity, and assist you if you choose to apply for them.

Imagine how your room would be transformed if funding was no longer an issue.
